Dear Prospective Skull,

It is an honor that you are considering joining the Delta Phi Chapter of the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity at New York University. Skullhouse is always looking for socially adventurous and intellectually curious members, and we look forward to making your acquaintance!

Despite the academic rigors of one of the nation's most outstanding universities, the brothers of Phi Kappa Sigma have not only endured, but have thrived, finding success in their coursework and extracurricular activities. Like New York City itself, we are truly a diverse and cosmopolitan band of brothers — it's almost a guarantee that someone in the Chapter shares your interest.

The brothers of Skullhouse are varsity sportsmen, first chair violinists, leaders in the university's developer and technology communities, filmmakers, volunteer museum guides, avid sailors, and public policy case competitors. This summer, brothers secured internships developing apps for Microsoft, investigating campaign finance in DC, and consulting businesses for Pricewaterhouse Coopers. Our members come from as far away as Nanjing and as close as the Bronx.

We are excited for recruitment this semester and invite you to be a part of the most tight-knit brotherhood on campus. To take the first step, please register for recruitment with the Interfraternity Council. To learn more about Skullhouse's "Billiards and Jazz," "Fratapult," and "Soccer and Frisbee" recruitment events, join our Facebook group. And of course, please browse this website — it's a treasure trove of information!

Welcome (back) to campus! Here's to the start of a great year.

Sincerely,
Bob Gardner
President, Phi Kappa Sigma
